

Swami finds controversy

By The Swami

Well, well... Where do I start this week? I have been receiving plenty of fan mail from some Cowboy fans out there. It seems they think I am picking on them too much. I have an answer for you...too bad! One person said I was talking too much "smack," so he thought he would out-pick me last week. Even with my lousy record of 7-8, I still beat plenty of challengers, including Gary "Take that smack" Palmiter. Take that and your 6-9 record to the bank.

Another fella sent me an e-mail saying he was getting no respect. He even accused me of not giving him credit for supposedly winning week seven. The books are straight Mr. "No Respect" Gabbert. On the other hand, is it "Loser?"

I was out golfing last week and overheard some duffers talking about me, "The Swami." The words were not so kind. Little did they know who I was in disguise. One of these hackers named "Grimedog" would not shut up. He thought the Braves were still playing in the World Series. I have an answer for you too...wake up! By the end of the day, his mouth was shut and his pockets empty. Why is it that Cowboy and Braves fans are crybabies?

All right, enough about those "Trashtalkers." Let's get down to business.

The winner of week 10 is Marshall Mantiplay. Mantiplay turned in an 11-4 record, edging Todd Walker by the closer tiebreaker score. Not bad for a couple of rookies. Mantiplay has won two movie passes and a Burger King coupon from my friends at AAFES. There were 59 challengers and only two (including me) picked the Jets to win Monday nights game. Do not count them out yet!

As you look at the week 12-entry form, notice there are two games on Thanksgiving. That means turn your picks in by Monday afternoon. Then sit back Thursday and watch the Dolphins gobble up the Cowboys.

HAPPY THANKSGIVING!
